

Nicolas Potel

CLOS DE VOUGEOT Grand Cru 2000

PRODUCTION AREA: Clos de Vougeot, also known as Clos Vougeot. A “clos” is a wall-enclosed vineyard in the Burgundy wine region. This vineyard’s red wine has the label of an Appellation d’origine contrôlée (AOC). Clos de Vougeot was named after the River Vouge which, although only a stream, separates the villages Vougeot and Chambolle-Musigny. At 50.6 hectares (125 acres), Clos de Vougeot is the largest single vineyard in the Côte de Nuits to bear the title of grand cru, while Corton in the Côte de Beaune is the largest grand cru in all of Burgundy.

SOIL TYPE: In the central area, the soil is brown and more clayey, atop broken limestone.

GRAPE VARIETY: 100% Pinot Noir.

WINE MAKING TECHNIQUES: The grapes are harvested by hand and sorted manually on arrival at the winery. This wine is made with grapes from four small parcels. 100% destemming then vinification for 20 days. Cold maceration for 8 days at 8°C. Ten days of fermentation at 30°C with punching down 3 times a day. Pumping over twice a day for two days followed by very soft vertical pressing. Ageing in 100% new Burgundy oak 228-litre barrels. The wine was put in steel tanks in November 2001, and bottled in February 2002 without filtration.

TASTING NOTES:

Colour Ruby garnet
Bouquet Subtle nose with spiced wood and lots of red berries
Palate Generous, full bodied and elegant at the same time. A long finish.

SERVING TEMPERATURE: Like all red Burgundies of this quality, the Clos de Vougeot Grand Cru 2000 should be served at a cellar temperature of 16 to 18°C with a platter of mature cheese.